Experiential overview of the major body systems as organized by tissue type (vs. physiological function) and observations involving their contribution to movement and affect. Attention is paid to the contrast of autonomic and “voluntary” functioning in efficient and expressive behavior, with concepts also being drawn from Body-Mind Centering®.

Workshop credits applied to Dynamic Embodiment™ -Somatic Movement Therapy Training. Dr. Martha's Eddy's Dynamic Embodiment – SMTT teaches Body-Mind Integration using awareness of the body, embodied knowledge of anatomy, and careful movement observation and analysis skills. This education supports research and work in education, the performing arts, health/wellness/fitness, psychology, and cultural studies.
